A Note from the Director

Introduce yourself to eBooks in November

For the month of November only, we have expanded our digital services with the introduction of OverDrive Media Station, a special computer station that allows visitors to browse and sample the library's digital collection of eBooks and audiobooks from an interactive touchscreen monitor in the library. Library patrons can send any title they discover using OverDrive Media Station to their favorite device for checkout using a QR code, email, or SMS text message.

Browse everything,
Sample anything

Send it anywhere with one click: phone, tablet or computer

We are thrilled to be the first Minuteman Library to offer this unique opportunity to try e-books in the library with this special interactive e-book station.

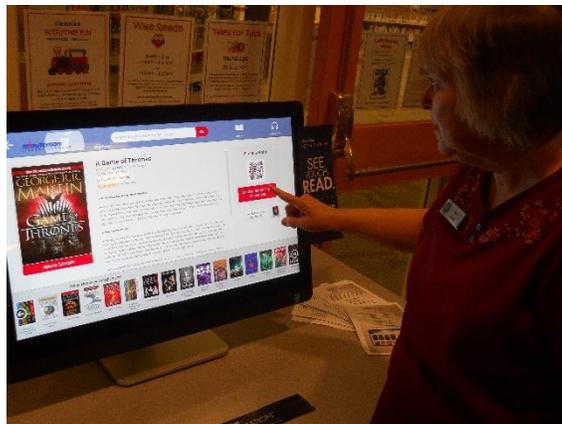

In addition to the new in-library OverDrive Media Station, digital titles are available anytime, anywhere by visiting <http://digital.minlib.net>. Users may browse the library's website, borrow titles with their library card, and enjoy on all major computers and devices, including iPhone®, iPad®, Nook®, Android™ phones and tablets, and Kindle®. eBooks can be read immediately on any device with an internet browser and all titles will automatically expire at the end of the lending period.

See our investment in eBooks for yourself!

Experience the interactive OverDrive Media Station anytime during the month of November at Goodnow and browse the library's digital collection anytime at digital.minlib.net.

See you at the library,

"The Bookies" Book Discussion Group

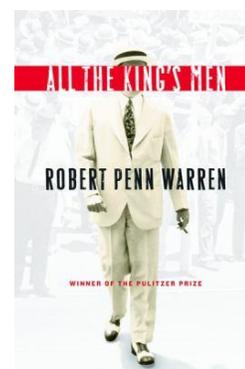

The "Bookies" met just before Halloween for a double-thriller, bagging the literary treasures of Their Eyes Were Watching God by Zora Neale Hurston and The Pearl by John Steinbeck. It was a treat to revel in these two masterful tellings of tales of struggle, independence, renewal and tragedy.

Our next book is yet another classic, All King's Men, by Robert Penn Warren.

Published in 1946, this Pulitzer Prize gives a thinly disguised fictional account of Huey Long, Depression era of Louisiana. When we place our cards on the table for the next meeting, December 10 at 7 pm, we're sure to have a full deck of issues relevant to our political climate as we delve back into the 1930's Depression.

November in the McQueen Gallery: Purely Pastel 2013

Showing for the month of November at Sudbury's Goodnow Library is a group show of work done by students of Jeanne Rosier Smith, PSA, who has taught pastels in her Sudbury studio for the past six years. Their work is wide-ranging and accomplished, a fact which Smith attributes in part to the monthly change in topic and in part to the variety of students. Smith explains that she especially enjoys teaching art to adults, who often relish the time they get to devote to a passion they may have had to put off for other demands. "One thing that makes the classes so interesting is the great range of experience people bring in; we have lawyers, educators, nurses, art teachers, graphic designers, high school students, a policeman, engineers of all kinds. Everyone has artistic ability (latent or not) which can be brought out with the right encouragement and training." Many exhibiting artists have begun showing, and garnering awards, in regional and national competitions. "I am so proud of this show: the work speaks for itself, and shows what a talented and dedicated group of artists I get to work with," says Smith.

Pastels are sticks of pure pigments held together with a minimum of binders, giving them their rich, velvety texture. The pastellist learns to control color, value, edge, line and texture with the pressure and touch of a stroke. Edgar Degas, Mary Cassat and James Abbott McNeill Whistler all popularized and elevated the use of pastel for a modern audience, and some of the nation's most accomplished artists continue working in the medium today.

Jeanne Rosier Smith is a signature member of the Pastel Society of America, and an artist member of the Copley Society and the Salmagundi Club. After earning a PhD and teaching college English for ten years, she became a full time artist in 2004. She is represented by four Massachusetts galleries: Powers in Acton, Gallery 31 in Orleans, Francesca Anderson in Lexington and Sosebee on Nantucket. In the past year her work has appeared in International Artist, American Art Collector, and The Pastel Journal. In addition to teaching weekly classes in Sudbury, she teaches workshops around the country and abroad--Provence next June and Croatia in September 2015.

Young Adults

Join the Teen Advisory Board!

Do you want to boost your resume, make an impact on the types of programs and books the department has (and hang out with Megan!)? Then volunteer at the library! Megan, Goodnow Library's Young Adult Librarian, is looking for volunteers to be part of a Teen Advisory Board. A Teen Advisory Board (TAB) is a group of Teens who give suggestions and opinions about the library and library programs and help the Young Adult Librarian plan programs. The TAB would meet once a month for two hours. At meetings teens will discuss books or series to add to our library's collection, programs for teens, and other services the library should or could provide for Sudbury teens. Megan would be happy to give you two service hours a month for your time on TAB. She will also use TAB board members to help plan, set up, and take down events -- another great way to earn additional service hours.

Teens in the Graveyard

On October 16th Goodnow Library's Young Adult Department hosted the event "Welcome to the Graveyard" in the local history room. The event was led by Young Adult Librarian Megan and Brenda, a "Gravestone Girl." Brenda shared her vast knowledge of graves and graveyards with teens, and set up different spooky stations. At the four different stations teens identified different types of rock used in gravestones, analyzed pictures of historic gravestones, made art out of gravestone by doing "grave rubbings," and wrote their own epitaphs. Look for more pictures from this event on Goodnow Library's Facebook and Instagram accounts!
